

Mr. Shin Tu-Min,
please give us a
private moment

Ah... sure

Have you been investigating without me?

Since when?

No, please don't misunderstand

I met him for a personal favor

It has nothing to do with this case

What about the document
you were talking about?

It was me who
found your document.
I found it during the recent incident.

You should have
given it to me...
Why did you see him...

I am sure you are confused and all at this point...

Will you listen to
my story?

Park Yuni,
how did you get here?!

Sorry
Your roommate
dropped the key

I just happened
to pick it up

Should have simply returned it to her then?
Why enter here?

Don't be so worked up

I had some suspicions,
so I had to do this

Suspicions...?

Isn't it strange that she was transferred here
when she doesn't know how to dance at all?

I was skeptical and happened to come across this...

I was just lucky tho.

This is...

Last year, I was asked to join the student council
by former vice president

But I was getting bored. I simply entered this course because

I spent my whole life
performing ballet

I figured it might be fun.

I am sure that you've noticed by now that,
despite of being a prestigious
university,

this school has been becoming tainted as of late

The vice president was against the president's reckless spending

She vowed to expose her spending and set things straight

Her investigation was exposed by her colleagues

She failed and became isolated. Even after graduation, it wasn't easy for her to pursue her career

How come?

Companies she should have easily gotten into... They simply refused to give her a chance

I looked into it and found that the university had major influence

I may have entered for fun

But seeing her suffer like that made me determined to help her

I took over her task and became the next president

On surface, I acted the way the university wanted

And in secret, I've been looking into ways to expose the wranglings

My main problem was that I could trust no one

And you came along

You must have found it strange that I've been seemingly doing nothing to help you

Well, a little...

Originally, I was going to force you to write what I've prepared...

By threatening to expose your identity...

Sorry... Are you shocked?

No... I do understand...

But I found you too good of a person to take advantage of you

And decided to work together...

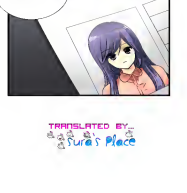

With me?

There is something I can't do alone...

And I was hoping we could do this together...

But there is an obstacle, a rather big one actually.

I found this out while going over the materials former vice president left for me

This was also mentioned in the document Mr. Shin was going to give you

I asked him not to tell you

That's why I met him personally

Is that why he was talking about when I got here...

Yes... as you can see from this...

Hye-Ri is the principal's daughter
